BAY ST. LOUIS COOKS BARE
SECRETS IN NEW ECHO SERIES

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles about the good cooks in Bay St. Louis, and their recipes.

Good cooking isn't a matter of certificate from the Cordon Bleu, or a shelf full of family recipes handed down by all the great grandmothers you can remember. Sometimes it's just a bit of vinegar that does it.

Did you ever try putting a spoonful of vinegar in the pan with your liver and onions?

The people who've been eating and cooking this way by Sidonia Rusk for the past fifteen years can declare its the best.

"You take about two pounds of good liver, preferably calves liver," says Sidonia. "You don't have to dredge it in flour, though you can if you wish."

Put enough of any kind of grease, except butter (burns too easily) in a frying pan—just enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Heat it. And then throw the liver rather quickly on each side.

When remove the meat, which, incidentally, should have all the bones and its tough little outside removed before frying, to a dish.

Slice a large onion and brown it in the fat as you cook the liver. Add to the onion about a tablespoon of dark vinegar. Place pieces of liver on top of the onions, cover and simmer on low heat for about 15 minutes, or until liver is just done.

"Be careful not to cook the liver too long or it will be tough," says Sidonia.

And as she talked, a small roomful of Favre children had gathered—some of the large brood which Sidonia has helped raise for the past 20-odd years.

"Tell about the coconut prunes," they chorused.

"This one is hard to tell about," she answered. "Because I just look in the pot to tell when it's ready."

It goes like this: Take four cups of sugar and a half a cup of milk and cook the mixture in a saucepan until it begins to thicken into syrup. Add a spoonful of vanilla and a grate of fresh coconut—a large one. Cook the mixture until sugary particles form at the side of the pan and the syrup is thick. This takes about 15 minutes.

Butter a length of waxed paper or a portion of a table top or marble slab and drop by the spoonful your pralines-to-be. Cool and hide or the kids will relieve you of all of them immediately.

Sidonia, who has been a resident of the Bay since she was about 15 years old, lives on Sycamore street, where she can answer any further questions about these two pet products of her kitchen.

Rural Communications to fit Mississippi's needs

With a smaller than ever farm population, Mississippi farms are yielding better crops than at any time in the state's history. That is due mainly to mechanization, improved farming methods, and better means of communication.

The telephone, for instance, is helping to keep more and more of our farm people better informed about markets and methods. They use it daily to order supplies, to summon help when it's needed in a hurry, or simply to keep abreast of news of family and friends.

Today, over 45,000 farm families and businesses in Mississippi are served by Southern Bell. Approximately 3/4 of these rural telephones were installed in the last 8 years, climaxed by last year's record installation of over 5,000 rural telephones in Mississippi.

To get investors to supply the money to continue expanding and improving Mississippi's telephone service requires a fair profit on the money invested in telephone property.

How investment for each additional telephone has increased.

The State of Washington, for instance, figures that its 400,000 hunters and anglers spend upwards of 100 million dollars a year in pursuit of game and fish.

In Michigan, where the tourist trade produces an income of 500 million dollars annually, it has been ascertained that 45 per cent of all the people who visit the state during the summer do so primarily to go fishing.

And in California, where they like big figures, conservation boys say that Golden State anglers spend 25 million man-days a year fishing.

Joe Parillo, of Des Moines, La., brother of Mike Parrillo, was a visitor over the weekend. He and a party of friends made a fishing trip on Pat Harrison Jr.'s boat out to Chandeleur Island and caught 38 Spanish mackerel, missing many more!

Camp Onward is a busy place these days with groups from New Orleans. Some of the men folks Regl Trainor, Adda Brennan, Laurence Engler, Gene Smith are scheduled to make a fishing trip on the Lang's boat Thursday. Some fish will be caught, that's for sure!

A fishing party aboard the Champney from Bayou Caddy Fishing Camp, made a nice catch Saturday. Members of the party were: Capt. Tom Thumb, Dr. R. E. Diaz, R. Sives, W. L. Mangon, Don Gilman, Paul Arcola, Bertin Barrones, W. C. Hayward, Sr., J. R. Hayward, D. L. Hayward, Harry Bourgeois and David Jones.

Russell Elliott, operator of Bayou Caddy Fishing Camp states even though fishing the past few days has not been up to par some nice catches have been made. And it looks like the big ones are moving in now. As soon as the tides begin running a little fuller the fishing should be excellent.

A. Gallina and party from New Orleans and Clermont made nice catches. Saturday and Sunday mornings, out of Bayou Caddy.

Howard Duff and Ray Hoffman were after the fish last Saturday, but didn't have much luck. They had plenty of mosquito bites and not enough tackle.

Flounders are giving again according to Mrs. Treutzel of Clermont Harbor. She and her sisters bagged 15 Mando night. Good news!

A new comer and fly fisherman is O. P. Alams of Romaneda St. He ventured out for the first time fly fishing Saturday morning and got a thrill out of it. He was down town Monday making some fishing tackle purchases.

Norman Renshaw, Commodore of the Yacht Club, had a good time presenting a bouquet of Roses to the winner of the Beauty Contest of the Junior Fishing Rodeo to be held the first week in September.

Along with other states, Mississippi had a choice of dates for the 1954-55 mourning dove season. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service permitted the section in which Mississippi lies to choose between 30 consecutive full days, or two periods of 20 consecutive half days, with shooting to start at noon on each day. Periods selected were to fall within the period from September 1 through January 10.

HELPFUL HINT - If you value that fly rod, never lay it across a couple of nails on the wall. Bamboo rods may easily take a ruinous "set" and in the case of either bamboo or glass rods, rusty metal and sharp edges can damage valuable line and ferrules. Safest practice is to take your fly rod apart for storage.

Gulf Coast Citizens APPRECIATE SENATOR JIM EASTLAND

When disaster struck the Gulf Coast in the form of the great hurricane, Senator Eastland flew to the scene and made quick contacts in Washington—working with Gulf Coast representatives—to have the area placed under "emergency status." He was largely responsible for securing prompt government assistance, in both funds and personnel. During the period of rehabilitation, Senator Eastland kept close contact with Coast officials in helping out with their problems.

Senator Eastland was largely responsible for securing approval of the great seawall and sand beach project, and obtained from the President—in cooperation with others in Congress—a directive to "unfreeze" construction during the Korean conflict so the great project could be completed. It was one of only three public works programs in the United States which were permitted to proceed during the war emergency.

The seafood industry appreciates Senator Eastland because he worked with others to get the Oregon assigned to the Gulf of Mexico to do fishery research to locate new fishing beds for fishermen. He was joint author of a bill which permitted Section 32 funds to be allocated for fishery research.

Senator Eastland worked with Coast officials in the various problems which arose after Keesler Field was established. He is working on a new federal building for Biloxi, and it will be built in the near future. He also is working now on a deep channel project for Pascagoula.

There are few places in the United States where there are as many complex problems involving the Federal Government as on the Gulf Coast. The Federal Government has a tremendous investment in military installations, in shipyard contracts, in Coast Guard services, and in the entire seafood industry. It is important to the Coast to have a Senator like Jim Eastland who KNOWS their problems and how to help solve them. Senator Eastland has fully cooperated in the past—he will continue to do so in the future. It can be truthfully said that the Mississippi Gulf Coast area has more problems involving Washington than the State capital. That's why the Coast is vitally interested in strong representation in Washington.

Senator Eastland fought for price supports on tung oil and has worked faithfully to help develop this industry.

"This hole runs across the bayou. The tee shot must hit the green. The green is surrounded by trees."

Hole number eight, 398 yards, "A semi-dog leg to the left. A built up green with a trap on the left. This green is very hard to hit because it is on the small side."

Hole number nine, 445 yards, "This hole calls for two fine wood shots. There is a hollow in front of the green and it rises on both sides."

Hole number 10, 146 yards, "A short hole. The green is raised with traps on both sides."

Hole number 11, 381 yards, "Calls for two very fine shots. It has trees on the right and a marsh on the left. There is a water hazard as you approach the green."

Hole number 12, 379 yards, "This is assigned to the right. You need a very fine placement drive and also an exacting second shot. The green is deep and narrow."

Hole number 13, 464 yards, "Trees on both sides of the fairway. The green has a trap on the right side. This is a very fine hole."

Hole number 14, 351 yards, "A straight drive is needed. There is a long narrow trap covering most of the left side of the green. The green is undulating."

Hole number 15, 338 yards, "An easy up hole with a large green. There is a trap on the right front of the green. The green is also very flat."

Hole number 16, 458 yards, "Again you come to another of the very fine golf holes. It has trees on both sides of the fairway. The green is built up on left and back sides. The surface is flat but small."

Hole number 17, 183 yards, "The green is small with a trap on the right. This is a good short hole."

Hole number 18, 405 yards, "This hole is the outstanding hole of the course. It has trees on both sides of the fairway. The tee shot must carry over a gully which is situated 200 yards from the tee. The green is guarded by a trap set in which covers 2/3 of the left front. This hole is one of the hardest par four holes I have ever seen."

Alec continued to comment about the course. He said, "The thing that really stands out on this course is that there are but a few parallel fairways. The ones that it does have are separated by tall pines."

"This course takes longer to play than most courses because of the heavy grass on the fairways. The most important thing here is to get your tee shot straight. This is true of any course but more so here."

"When you play this course you will notice that no two holes resemble each other. Also there is a great variety of shots because of the shape of the built up greens without any excess trapping."

Cunningham, the builder of the course went on to say "The greens are large with a few exceptions. They are in fine shape. On the course there are two or three let up holes which at any time we desire can be moved back to any size we wish. But the only time we will do this is for a major tournament."

The par for men at Pass Isles is 72. For the ladies it is 75. Up until this time par has not been reached. "The closest in the men's division was a 74 shot by Roy Capehart," Alec said. As he was talking someone walked in and that Mrs. Phillip Foote had just shot the best nine holes ever shot by a lady on this course. She had a 41.

Before he left to supervise the filling in of some holes with dirt Alec said, "It is unusual how many players we have each day even though it is so hot. They really love to play."

Our Greatest Need

This community would like a sand beach. It would like some in, but there is no greater need than a modern, up-to-date hospital. The most positive force in this community - the American Legion - has stepped forward with a plan for a new hospital. This plan should be subjected to searching examination. The question to be asked is this: will it be adequate? Our first idea is perhaps not. The plan calls for a 26-bed hospital. That does not appear to be large enough for a county of Hancock. The proper Hancock County hospital must be complete - and must have facilities for everyone in the county, no matter what color or creed. Anything short of that would be continuing the present problem somewhat. It is true that sometimes you must crawl before you can walk. And a hospital that's too small would be better than no hospital at all. But no one - most of all a force with the drive and community spirit of the Legion - should crawl until it is positive it cannot walk.

This editorial should not be construed as criticism of the Legion plan. It is not. Act. . . . everyone else twiddled thumbs, the Legion has acted. It deserves complete and unselfish support for this project.

But we are urging that everyone make sure the hospital to be built eliminates the present problem.

That problem would be especially serious if there were any great outbreak of disease here. It is difficult to get a doctor to come into a town where there is no adequate hospital.

It is normal routine for a doctor to make daily calls on his hospital patient.

How can a doctor now make his calls when his patients might be in New Orleans or Gulfport, simply because there is no adequate hospital in Bay St. Louis?

No county in the United States should be without a modern hospital. The health of our people is of paramount concern.

Yet here we are with some 18,000 persons dependant upon a converted house, inadequately equipped, for medical service.

It is especially good that the Clement R. Bontemps post of the American Legion started this project. Because those are the boys who get things done around here.

But let's make certain that what we build is big enough. You don't get to build many hospitals in a lifetime.

Down With Dior!

We were shocked to read in Time Magazine this week that Christian Dior, the famous Paris dress designer, has "eliminated the season" for fall.

Now we don't know how M. Dior proposed to do this - or why. But we venture to say that in some cases it cannot be done, clinically or socially.

ARCHIE HART, FORMER RESIDENT, HOLDS TITLE OF OLDEST LIVING EX-POSTMASTER

REAL VETERAN—At 94, Archie Hart is the oldest living postmaster in the United States.

By OSMOND A. BLAIZE

Archie B. Hart, born December 9, 1861, is now the oldest living ex-postmaster in the country.

These 84 years from the date of his birth are years marked by a successful life in business and politics made happier by the love, friendship and respect of the citizens he served.

Uncle Archie, as he is known in and around Bay St. Louis, was a journalist and printer by trade and a politician at heart. Through his newspaper, THE PROGRESS, he kept the local politicians on the straight and narrow path with his fiery articles which made him loved by many, hated by some and feared by others.

Following 40 years striving for progress in his community by means of the printed word, Mr. Hart sold his weekly publication and retired from the field of journalism. This did not take him out of circulation. Several years later he accepted the position of postmaster at the Bay St. Louis Office. Little did he know then that he would have the honor of being the oldest living postmaster in the United States today.

When their son was born, one wonders if James E. Hart of Charlottesville, Virginia, and Susan E. Howard of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, envisioned little Archie's future as most young parents do. If they dreamed that their son was to become a well-known figure in his own community and in parts of Southern Alabama and Louisiana, their pride must have known no bounds. For he certainly fulfilled their greatest expectations.

For 40 years as a newspaper man, and then in his new career as postmaster, Hart added much to his community. In looking back over the years, he marveled at the changes which have taken place in Bay St. Louis, in the postal service and more so in his beloved field of printing since he first set his entire newspaper by hand.

Even after his retirement, he ran a personal news bureau for oldtimers who left Bay St. Louis and did not return for a number of years. When they did come back, they would always visit Mr. Hart to learn of the news of their friends. Details of all local events were at his finger tips.

Mrs. Alvina Hoffman Hart, who was her husband's constant companion in his search for success, and happiness, died a few years ago. Following this Mr. Hart moved with relatives to Hattiesburg, Mississippi. Although he is away from his home town, he is still remembered by his many friends, both young and old, who used to greet him as he sat on the stoop in front of the postoffice with a smile and a cheery word of wisdom for all. Despite his age his mind is active and with the help of his faithful walking cane and a hand from an old friend or a new one, he still gets about.

He has often stated that he is still "Young enough to notice new faces, particularly the pretty young ones which are like pretty flowers. You never get too old to enjoy looking at either of them."

LOCAL BOY TELLS OF KOREA AND EFFECTS OF WAR

(Editors note—this is another article written with the help of the information received from one of the local boys overseas. The following is the viewpoint of Pvt. Bruce Favre on Korea and the situation in Korea.)

By BRUCE FAVRE

Korea is a country of small villages, which are very overcrowded. Children can be seen everywhere you turn. The majority of them are poorly clothed and unclean. Most of the homes are sided with clay and roofed with straw. They are very small.

The people themselves are very hard workers. With the help of the United States they are rebuilding Korea rapidly. After the end of the war schools were hardly adequate to handle the number of children but now they are being built everyday and before long they should be able to take care of this need.

The weather here changes very much with each new season. During the winter time it is very cold and snows most of the time. In the summer it gets pretty warm except for the last couple of weeks. At this period it rains continuously. This is known as the rainy season.

The land is not bad. That is, not as bad as you would expect. It is plenty hilly or mountainous. But in between these mountains there are rice paddies as far as the eye can see. These make a beautiful landscape when they are green.

One of the most widely known things in Korea is the "frame." Each day you can see hundreds of these frames. People use these to carry things. They are built in the shape of an A and fasten over the shoulders. With one of these the men here can carry an unbelievable amount.

The Koreans are very good at making things out of stone. And take my word for it there are plenty of these over here.

Seoul, the widely known capital of Korea is rather large but it is also overcrowded. The streets of this city are lined with all kinds of little shops that sell everything from pins to watches. And on these streets the shoe shine boys are plentiful you can hardly walk.

The most pitiful sight I have seen in Korea since my arrival are the children. They are dirty and they lack clothes. But at the present time the people of the United States are lending a helping hand to these children. They are sending them the necessities of life and thereby helping them to live a little cleaner.

The general outlook on the situation here can be summed up like this:

Korea is a country that is being reconstructed. There are changes being made economically, educationally, and politically.

There are changes in the ways of the democracy, in the age old customs, and in the basic thoughts of the people.

These people are now receiving for the first time a friendly influence, an ally who not only give the resources but the know-how in using these products.

The United States which fought side by side with the Koreans, in the conflict on their home soil, has now joined hands with them for another fight. This one is to replace the ruins of the cities and the hilly countryside with the buildings and other facilities that are necessary for a modern civilization.

Announcement Notices can be placed in this Page at 10 Cents per word.

Two beautiful balmy evenings were enjoyed by Pass Christian residents at the Annual Park Fair last Saturday and Sunday at Memorial Park in the Pass. While the attendance was just about normal for the annual get-together for the benefit of the Park Commission, the weather was better than was enjoyed in recent years.

Total proceeds exceeded $1000 and other donations are expected to come, according to Miss Jane Lang, treasurer. The funds go to the upkeep of the park for the entire coming year.

Organizations who manned the booths for the public included the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Yacht Club, Rotary, Beta Sigma Phi, Garden Club, Sea Scouts and Civic Improvement League.

Pass Christian has just released water bills for the next six months beginning July 1st and ending December 31st, 1954. Mayor Francis Hursey and the Board of Aldermen have instituted a new system of accounting and billing which it is hoped will be beneficial to existing service.

After January 1, plans are to send out water bills quarterly.

The Commodore Leo McDermott round robin yacht races to determine the Pass Christian entry into the annual Lipton Races was won last week by Harry Wittmann, who gathered 26 3/4 points to place first. Rip Terrell placed second with 22 1/4 points and Sidney Ellis third with 21 1/4 points. Fourth and last man to place on the racing team, which is composed of a crew of four, was "Snuffy" Smith, whose 19 1/4 points barely nosed out John G. Curran's 18.

Placing sixth was Jack Lang with 18 1/4 points.

Winners among the skipperettes who race on August 14 and 15th in the Knott All-Girl Regatta were Mrs. Lorette Wittmann with 31 1/4 points, Miss Rosalie Ambler with 26 3/4 points, and Miss Lise Kerrigan, with 21 1/4 points. These three will make up the Pass team.

Others participating in the elimination races were Mrs. Thelma Miller, 18 1/4 points, in fourth position and Mrs. Irene Cook who tied with Miss "Sugar" Ford at 13 points, for the fifth and sixth positions.

A well-known concert harpist from New Orleans, Miss Elizabeth Brookfield Burke, was accompanied by the Gulf Coast Theatre of Arts members and their guests last Sunday at a recital given at Mid-Oaks in the Pass. The enthusiastic audience filled every available chair in the spacious drawing room and called back Miss Burke for an encore after hearing a wide selection from her repertoire.

In the opening piece, which was Mozart's "Rondo from CCo-o-ceto or Flute and Harp, K 299", Miss Burke was accompanied by Program Director Laurence Oden on the flute and Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin at the piano.

Other selections included Faure's "Impromptu", Debussy's "Arabesque No. 1", "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair", "Clair de Lune", Tournier's "Toward the Spring in the Wood," and Oden's "Nocturne, Op. 7 for Harp and Piano." This concluding number, by Dr. Oden, featured the composer himself, at the piano accompanying Miss Burke.

The afternoon program, marking the monthly meeting of the Theatre group, was followed as usual by a reception. The September program was planned Tuesday night at dinner at the Gulf Palms Restaurant in the Pass, Gulfport presiding.

At their regular meeting last Tuesday the Pass Lions Club spent considerable time discussing the possibilities of eliminating future drownings at the treacherous Bells Ferry swimming hole where Sea Scout Jerry Noto recently lost his life. His was the 16th drowning at that point, which is an abandoned site for the old ferry on the back road.

Following a meeting with Beat Supervisor Hayden, President Nease reported that a sign of warning will be erected at the point which has waters both swift and deep. The road can not be closed because of rights of private property owners there.

The Lions will also support the drive of the Volunteer Fire Department at the Pass to raise $280 to get an aluminum skiff, outboard motor and trailer which can be hitched to the police car for rescue work. The firemen are to hold a dance for the purpose of raising funds for this cause.

In addition, the Sea Scouts, service project of the Lions' are to get Red Cross lifesaving training in Gulfport and will equip nine boats for rescue work.

A general appeal to parents to impress the dangers of swimming at Bell's Ferry upon their children throughout the community was discussed at the same time in an effort to forestall any further tragedies at that point.

Frank L. Kemp, skipper of the Sea Scouts, announced a plan which the group has already underway as a memorial to Jerry Noto. This is to be a swimming pool in a site to be chosen later and for which considerable material has already been donated by interested businessmen. This includes all the concrete and the ceramic tile which will be needed.

The Lions Club, which is now completing a total renovation of the Teenage Community Center, is expected to follow through with support of the swimming pool project as their next endeavor. At the park fair on August 7 and 8, relays of Lions were in the beverage booths as part of their service toward the Park Commission.

Mrs. William J. Lutz, the former Miss Bettye Gause, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Gause, and her children, William, Peggy, Michael and Patricia, are visiting Mrs. Lutz's mother, Mrs. East Beach, in the Pass. They will be here for a fortnight, to be joined sometime during the stay by Mr. Lutz. Mrs. Gause manages the Pass branch of the Hancock Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Appfel and their four children have returned to New Orleans after a 10-day visit to Pass Christian.

ED. P. ORTIE, who in March, was elected to the Board of Directors of the Allied Theater Owners of America, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Theater Owners.

This organization is responsible for the elimination of the State Theater Tax. Had the tax not been repealed, it would have been necessary, in order to keep theaters open, to increase admission at least 15c to 25c per person for every location in the State of Mississippi.

Mr. Ortie states that Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin worked hard and diligently in the revealing of this tax, and it is mainly for that reason that the Theater organizations in the state should support Carroll Gartin for United States Senator.

League Reminds Voters of Election

The League of Women Voters today urged that the voters of this county be reminded of the importance of their vote in the August 24th election.

"See that all your qualifications are in order so that you can go to the polls... through your representative—and that means through you and your vote—the policies of your country will be determined," the League said.

Legion Club Open Later

For the increased convenience for the public and the members as well it was decided at a meeting last week that the Legion Club would be kept open every night until at least ten p. m., it was announced today by Bert Estapa, chairman of the club committee.

This action by the Legion will allow the Legion Club to be open with all of its public conveniences to be available more than twelve hours a day, Estapa said.

The conveniences of free public rest rooms, free ice water, free telephone service, and other comforts will be available from early morning until late at night.

This step is expected to cause another deficit in the operations of the Legion, but according to members' sentiments it will be worth while, Andy Becker, Legion treasurer stated.

In addition to the added service to the public, the club will be open at least for the next few weeks on Mondays as well as other days of the week, Estapa concluded.

Lt. Gov.

CARROLL GARTIN

The Veterans' Candidate

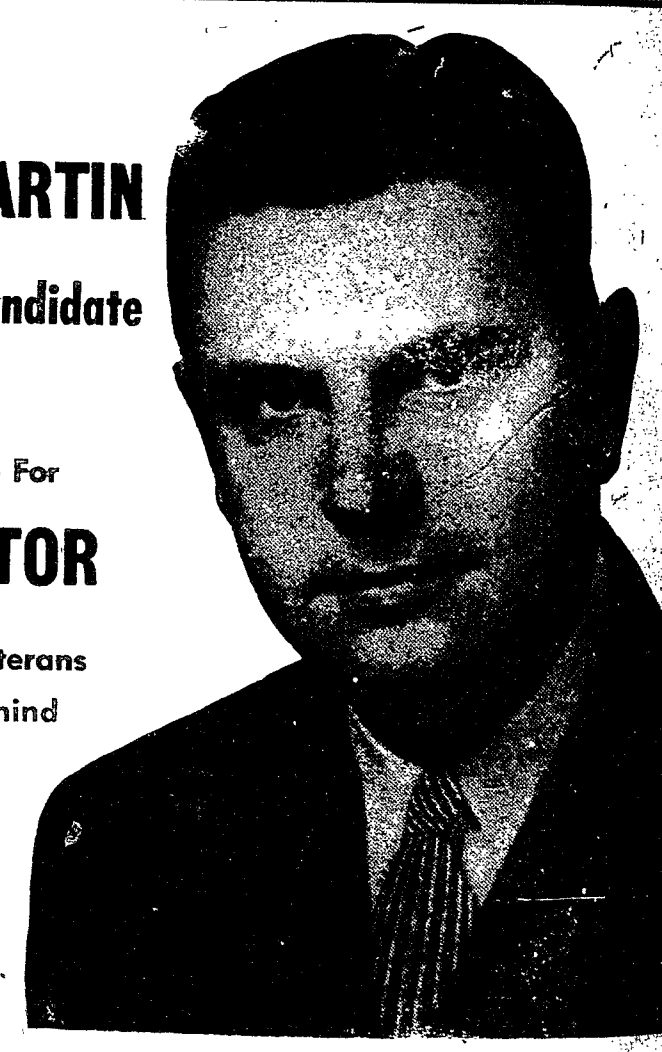

Is

Leading The Race For

U. S. SENATOR

Here's Why The Veterans Are Lining Up Behind

CARROLL GARTIN...

The veterans are among the more civic conscious of our citizens. They promote good government. They work for general prosperity. They fight communism. They think in terms of the general welfare. Because they know that the election of Carroll Gartin as U. S. Senator will be to the advantage of all the people of Mississippi, they are backing him in his campaign for U. S. Senator.

The veterans know they can depend on Carroll Gartin. They know him as a man of action because he is one of them. The veterans know that only another veteran can completely and fully appreciate the problems of ex-servicemen. And Carroll Gartin is a veteran of 5 years service in the United States Army. As Lieutenant Governor, he has worked for legislation to benefit the veterans of Mississippi. As U. S. Senator he will work for all the veterans of the United States.

The veterans are for Carroll Gartin because they liked what they heard when he said:

"I will work to obtain better hospital facilities and more liberal pension benefits for the veterans of all wars. I shall try to get established in the U. S. Senate a veterans affairs committee to devote full time to the problems of ex-servicemen. I favor more liberal pension benefits for the widows and war orphans. Legislation to continue the veterans preference act to help ex-servicemen obtain employment will have my support. And I will work for legislation to help the thinning ranks of veterans of the first world war whose problems become more acute with each passing year."

That's why the veterans are supporting Carroll Gartin. They know he knows their problems. He talks their language. He will make the total fight in their behalf. They know that he will be on the job full time to protect their interests. That's why they are joining hands with the school teachers, the farmers, the business people, with the other thoughtful people of Mississippi to...

HELP THE PEOPLE WIN

VOTING CARROLL GARTIN IN

U. S. SENATOR

(Read and approved by Philip Sheffield, Campaign Manager)

To The Qualified Electors of Eighth Chancery Court District

On June 9, 1954, I made formal announcement of my candidacy for re-election, for another term, as Judge of the Chancery Court District composed of Harrison, Hancock and Stone counties.

It was stated in the announcement that, on account of Court terms to be held in each county preceding the election, and almost daily hearings of matters in vacation, it would not be possible for me to make an active campaign of the district, and that I would have to depend largely upon the general knowledge of the public of my record as a private citizen and public official along with publications through the press and cooperation of friends in the campaign.

I shall not have opportunity during the short time that remains to engage in extensive personal visitations among the voters before August 24; but I shall continue the use also of the public press and the mails and my friends to carry my candidacy to the public, for its judgment, first as to whether I have been faithful and efficient in the discharge of the duties and responsibilities which they have conferred upon me during these past 25 years as their Chancellor; and whether they believe that I am worthy to be entrusted in that capacity for another term.

I am not assuming that the qualified electors of this district are interested in any personal ambition that I, or any other candidate, may have to be elected Chancery Judge, or any other public officer for that matter; your only interest being in the all-important question, Who is best qualified by character, attitude, training and ability to render the best services in behalf of the entire public?

Our courts of justice constitute one of the greatest assets on any community. They take their place along with those other two great institutions, namely, the church and the public schools. Every good citizen wants, and is entitled to have, such court in his community as he may safely trust with the most important interests of himself, his family and his neighbors. A court of which no good citizen need be ashamed or afraid.

Soliciting your continued support, I am

Yours faithfully,

D. M. RUSSELL, SR.
